

Inflation continues upward climb

WASHINGTON (AP) Sharply higher food prices and a record jump in nonfood commodities pushed the cost of living up 1.1 per cent in March as the worst inflation in a quarter of a century held its grip on the economy, the government reported today.

The Labor Department said last month's rise sent consumer prices 10.2 per cent higher than a year ago, the most in any 12-month period since an identical rise in 1948.

For the first quarter of 1974, consumer prices rose at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 14.5 per cent, highest in any three-month period since the first quarter of 1951 during the Korean War.

The gloomy economic report was the second in two days. The Commerce Department reported Thursday that the Gross National Product — the nation's total output of goods and services—fell at a 5.8 per cent annual rate, the first decline in three years and the biggest drop in 16 years.

Although the Nixon administration says it expects the economy to turn around in the second half of the year, some government analysts predict the next three months will be as bad or worse than the inflation for the first three months of the year.

With inflation continuing unabated, the Labor Department said buying power of American workers fell nine-tenths of 1 per cent in March to a level 4.7 per cent below a year ago. It marked the biggest annual decline since the government began keeping that statistic in 1964.

The Consumer Price Index climbed last month to 143.1 of its 1967 average, meaning that it cost consumers $143.10 to buy the same variety of retail goods and services that $100 bought in 1967.

The 1.1 per cent jump in prices last month, on both a seasonally and unadjusted basis, compared with a 1.3 per cent rise in February and an increase of 1 per cent in January. It was the third biggest monthly jump since September 1947. August of last year was the biggest since then — 1.9 per cent — followed by this February and March.

Government analysts said higher prices for gasoline and food were responsible for about 25 per cent of the March increase.

Grocery prices jumped one per cent, substantially more than is usual for March, but less than the increases for the previous two months. Fresh vegetables, processed fruits, cereals, bakery and dairy products were up but beef prices, after rising sharply in February, declined in March.

But the sharpest increase was in nonfood commodities, including industrial prices, which rose 1.5 per cent both seasonally and unadjusted last month. It was the biggest increase in this category since the government started those statistics in 1956.

Gasoline and motor oil again jumped sharply in March, rising 7 per cent to a level 39.3 per cent above the previous March. Fuel oil and coal prices dropped slightly last month but were still 57.7 per cent above March 1973.

New car prices increased instead of declining as they usually do in March. Prices for used cars continued to fall.

Services rose eight-tenths of 1 per cent from February to March, driven up by a 20 per cent jump in postal charges and a rise of 1.7 per cent in physicians' fees.

A rise of five-tenths of one per cent in average hourly earnings last month was offset by the jump in consumer prices and a drop of three-tenths of one per cent in average weekly hours, sending average weekly earnings down eight-tenths of one per cent for the month.

Earlier, a Commerce Department official said inflation in the second quarter this year will be as bad or worse than the 10.8 per cent rate for this first three months.

Sidney L. Jones, assistant commerce secretary for economic affairs, also said inflation must be brought under control before the country can fully recover from its current economic slowdown.

The Commerce Department reported the first quarter inflation rate — the worst since 1951 — in its report Thursday on the country's Gross National Product, the measure of value of the nation's output of goods and services.

Jones said at a news briefing that the country is "seeing the very brutal impact of inflation on the ability of the economy to grow."

He said inflation is increasing prices so fast that Americans can't keep up, and that consumer purchases have declined as a result.

Jones said the economic slowdown should level out in the second quarter and the economy probably will resume growth after mid-year. But he said unemployment probably will increase during the year to near 6 per cent.

Warplanes are active in Middle East conflict

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Syrian and Israeli warplanes roared into action for the second straight day today as ground fighting raged for key positions on Mt. Hermon and along the 40-mile Golan Heights front.

The Syrian command said its MIGs "scored direct hits" on Israeli positions, "causing heavy losses in men and equipment," but Israel reported no casualties in the air strikes.

The Syrians also claimed their missiles downed seven Israeli warplanes, but Israel said all its planes returned safely.

The Tel Aviv command said the Israeli jets attacked artillery and troop emplacements six miles behind Syria's front lines, hitting Syrian targets for three hours on the slopes of Mt. Hermon and on the southern Golan front.

In Lebanon, nine Israeli planes were seen striking a Syrian radar station on the peak of the Anti-Lebanon Mountains just east of the Syrian-Lebanon frontier. There was no immediate estimate of the damage or comment from the Syrian command.

Control of Mt. Hermon is sought by both sides because its 9,200-foot peak commands a view for miles into Lebanon, Israel and Syria, and possession could be used as a trading point in disengagement negotiations.

A Syrian communique said the downed Israeli planes were seen falling into Israeli-held territory and onto Mt. Hermon itself.

An Israeli military spokesman said "all our planes returned safely."

Syria also claimed that Israeli planes had bombed their own positions "inflicting casualties on their own troops" at Tel Al Arayess in the Golan Heights during confusion created by the Syrian missile attack. Israel called the claims "nonsense."

The spokesman confirmed that SAM missiles had been fired at the Israeli planes, but said he could not confirm or deny that ground to ground missiles were employed.

The Israeli jets struck at Syrian targets on the 9,200-foot peak and on the southern Golan front, a communique said.

Israel's air action apparently was triggered when Syria shelled the Mt. Hermon defenders and Israelis on the southern bulge.

Syrian communiques said ground fighting raged through the night and at this morning "the clashes spread to many areas of the front" involving tanks, artillery and ground to ground missiles.

Plans for festival in July announced

Plans to hold a weekend Ozark Arts, Crafts and Music Festival on the Missouri State Fairgrounds July 19-21 were announced at noon Friday by Robert Shaw, a Kansas City advertising executive representing Music Productions Inc. The luncheon meeting was attended by several city and county officials.

David E. Kinton, an attorney for Music Productions, noted the festival comes less than a week before the Scott Joplin Ragtime Festival. Shaw said the Joplin Festival would be promoted during the festival his firm plans.

Kinton estimated 50,000 people would attend his festival here, spending an estimated $1 million. It will be the first such festival in Missouri, he said. He also said it would cost about $300,000 to $400,000 to stage the festival.

A carnival at the Fairgrounds midway is planned in conjunction with the festival. A bandstand will be located on the north side of the race track where various bands will play contemporary, country-western and other musical selections.

Kinton said most of those attending the festival would likely camp on the Fairgrounds. He said the festival has been in the planning stages for several months.

Music Productions Inc. plans to set up a full-time office in the Women's Building on the Fairgrounds in about two weeks, it was learned. Plans also call for contacting local food distributors to set up concessions during the festival. Kinton stressed that no alcoholic beverages would be sold on the grounds during the event.

The festival itself will consist of contests, arts and crafts exhibits and other entertainment.

Two men arraigned in murder

(Democrat-Capital Service)

WARSAW — Two Kansas City, Kan., men were arraigned Thursday in Wyandotte County, Kan., Magistrate Court on fugitive warrants based on two Benton County murder warrants.

Arraigned were Harold Wayne Massey, 23, and Edward C. Cunningham, 19. Both are free on $20,000 bond.

The two are charged in Benton County Magistrate Court here with the Saturday morning slaying of John Bedgood, 28, Belton. Massey is believed to have been the driver of a pickup truck that ran over Bedgood about 1 a.m. Saturday near Routes V and M in Benton County. Cunningham is believed to have been a passenger in the truck.

Benton County Deputy Sheriff Robert Hamner said Massey was apprehended Wednesday evening and Cunningham was taken into custody Thursday when he went to his brother's home in Kansas City, Kan.

The two reportedly were identified by members of the "Missing Links" motorcycle club, of which Bedgood was a member, Hamner said. Massey and Cunningham had visited with other members of the motorcycle club late Friday night before they, Bedgood and another camp member went to get firewood, authorities said.

Hamner said the two were questioned Thursday by Benton County Sheriff Robert Breshears and members of the Highway Patrol. No motive has yet been established for the murder.

Hamner said the pickup truck believed to have been involved in the murder has been found by Wyandotte County authorities. He said the truck's front end had recently been "cleaned up" apparently to avoid implication.

Hamner said Versailles attorney Dave Yarder will represent the two. He is scheduled to meet with Benton County Prosecuting Attorney Bob Drake to set a date for the murder arraignment at Magistrate Court here.

Benton County authorities will not have to go through extradition proceedings in Wyandotte County Magistrate Court if the two men agree to be arraigned in Benton County, Hamner said.

Bedgood was buried Wednesday in Belton.

Stans maintains Vesco demanded funds secrecy

NEW YORK (AP) — Maurice Stans insisted at his federal conspiracy trial today that it was financier Robert L. Vesco who demanded that his $200,000 contribution to President Nixon's 1972 campaign be kept secret.

Under cross-examination, the former Commerce secretary conceded that he had not told the grand jury that indicted him that it was Vesco who asked for privacy.

Stans and one-time Atty. Gen. John Mitchell are accused of impeding a Securities and Exchange Commission fraud investigation of Vesco in return for his contribution. The charges are conspiracy, obstruction of justice and perjury.

Stans had testified that he first met Vesco on March 8, 1972, and that Vesco asked him whether giving cash would provide him the maximum privacy.

Asst. U.S. Atty. John Wing produced a transcript of Stans' grand jury testimony in which he was asked what reason Vesco gave for wanting to give the money in cash. Stans told the grand jury that he did not recall Vesco giving a reason.

Vesco's money was delivered to Stans on April 10, 1972, three days after a new law required disclosure. The defense claims that the contribution did not have to be reported because it had been pledged before April 7.

Stans said that up until June 10, 1972, he had not told anybody at the Finance Committee to re-elect the President, which Stans headed, that Vesco had made a contribution. However, he said Vesco's name was on a list of prospects not to be solicited, which should have tipped off people on the committee that he had given already.

Stans said that when he met with Vesco on March 8, he was not aware of newspaper accounts of Vesco's difficulties with the SEC and that a dissident stockholder had accused Vesco of looting mutual funds which he controlled. Stans said that he believed after talking with Mitchell and with Harry Sears, a New Jersey politician who was a lawyer for Vesco and Mitchell's friend, that there was no impropriety in taking Vesco's money.

The government, which will call rebuttal witnesses when the defense rests, has subpoenaed reporters Sally Quinn of the Washington Post and Ymelda Dixon of the Washington Star-News.

The prosecution seeks their testimony in connection with a perjury count against Mitchell, a motion to quash Miss Quinn's subpoena is before U.S. District Court Justice Lee Gagliardi.

One of the perjury counts in the indictment charged that Mitchell falsely denied seeing volunteer Republican campaign worker Daniel Hofgren at a political fund-raising gala at the Washington Hilton Hotel on March 8, 1972.

Hofgren testified he asked Mitchell if he'd seen Vesco that day and that Mitchell replied, "you stay away from that."

Miss Quinn and Miss Dixon were said to have been covering the March 8 event for their newspapers. It is known the government hoped to elicit testimony from one or both that they saw Hofgren talking to Mitchell at the Washington Hilton that night.

The Vesco aides turned over the $200,000 contribution in $100 bills to Stans on April 10, 1972. He and Mitchell had left the Cabinet by that time to direct Nixon's successful re-election effort. Stans headed the fund-raising activities of the campaign, with Hugh Sloan Jr. as his finance committee treasurer.

Stans said he had Sloan put the contribution down under John Mitchell's name "for the time being" because he was concerned that Vesco's name connected with such a large contribution might have aroused staff interest and produced news leaks.

Rubber snakes to be tried out next week

The Pettis County Court should know next week whether the county's messy birds fall for the "rubber snake trick."

According to Western District Judge John Bluhm, some of the 23 rubber snakes which the court recently purchased to scare the pigeons and starlings from the county courthouse will be placed on third-story window ledges of the building sometime next week.

"As soon as we get the ledges cleaned off on the third floor we're going to give it a try," Bluhm said. "If the snakes do any good, then we'll put up some more."

The County Court announced last month that it was turning to rubber snakes to control the messy bird population at the courthouse. Eastern District Judge E. L. Birdsong got the idea after he read a newspaper article which credited the fake snakes with solving the bird problems at another Missouri courthouse.

The court originally wanted to purchase 48 of the 2 1/2-foot snakes, but only last week was able to locate 23 of them in a local store.

The original story of the court's plan was sent out by the Associated Press in Kansas City and carried in many of the state's newspapers.

The story prompted at least two persons to send the court their suggestions on the problem.

Mrs. J. A. Pittman of Joplin told the court to "get some ordinary moth balls, put them in cheese cloth bags and hang or stuff them where the birds try to roost. They will get a whiff of those and they'll take out."

Another writer from Branson suggested that the court hang a few fake owls around the courthouse to ward off the birds.

Since the two suggestions wouldn't cost the county much money, Bluhm said, the court decided to give them a try.

Bluhm said a local businessman gave the court a fake owl, and the phony bird soon will be seen by the local bird population in a tree on the south side of the courthouse lawn.

The mothballs, Bluhm said, probably will go on the roof.

In past years, the court has tried several

Protestant monk wins religious award

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
Sometimes of an evening, the leader of an extraordinary community of white-robed Protestant monks goes out walking alone in the quiet, rural night, and as he gazes up at the star-laden sky, he repeats to himself:
"Nothing is grave except the loss of love."
Brother Roger Schutz, founder and prior of the Community of Taizé, France, told of his meditations on those evening strolls in a talk last week to accept the $82,000 Templeton Foundation Prize for Progress in Religion.
He said the money will go "to poor young people, especially in the southern hemisphere" who are committed to two ideals now animating the world's youth — the struggles for justice for the poor and for a personal sense of God's loving presence to fill an inner emptiness.

"All this is one and the same struggle — that of love," he said. "To the point that nothing is grave except the loss of love."
The Taizé community, started by Brother Roger in the aftermath of World War II, has become a global oasis of Christian unity and fraternity in worship and work.
Roman Catholic and Eastern Orthodox thinkers, as well as Protestants, mingle there, spending a few days at the rural hilltop church and grounds, sharing in the chanted psalms, prayer and tranquility.

Several times daily, bells chime out across the valley, signaling the intermittent liturgical "offices" of the day, beginning at dawn and ending after nightfall.
About 70 brothers from various countries and denominations belong to the order, which supports itself by running a pottery shop, a print shop and by farming. They share all goods and resources, follow a discipline of work and prayer.
At worship they wear white robes with hoods, and at other times, ordinary slacks and sweaters. The community, dedicated to Christian unity, has become an ecumenical beacon in the midst of continuing divisions among followers of one Christ.
About 100,000 visitors annually spend time at the center. Many of them lately have been young people, most of whom bring their own tents or bed-rolls. The community for several years has been planning a worldwide council of youth, now scheduled to open Aug. 30.
Brother Roger, now 59, told the meeting in London, England, at which he received the prize that he had great confidence in the new generation of young people, adding, "It is for us, the older generation to listen, never to condemn."
"Listen and again listen, to grasp what is finest in the creative intuition that dwells within the young today. They will trace out paths, they will overcome barriers ... to carry the whole people of God along with them. Above all, they will know how to get beyond the demarcation lines that separate believers."

The prize was set up in perpetuity by American financier John Templeton, a United Presbyterian, to stimulate "knowledge and love of God." It was presented last year to Mother Teresa, a Roman Catholic nun who started an order serving the poor in Calcutta's slums.
Brother Roger, as a young French Protestant theologian, first sought to start a retreat center in Taizé in 1942, but was forced by the German occupation of France into exile in Switzerland.
Since then, however, through funds provided by other Christians, a new church has been built on the hill with a large central meeting hall, special Catholic and Orthodox chapels and other facilities.

He returned in 1944 to Taizé, a little village in the poorer, eastern part of France, and with three brothers, determined to create a community of "joy and brotherhood."
At the start, he sought permission for the brothers to worship in the village Catholic chapel — a request that made its way up to — and was granted — by the then papal nuncio in Paris, Angelo Roncalli, later Pope John XXIII.

Appellate panel upholds decision

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—A three-judge appellate panel has upheld the right of inmates at the Iowa State Penitentiary to belong to a religious group known as the Church of the New Song.
In a U.S. Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals decision, the panel held that the church, a protest of prison officials notwithstanding, "is a religion within the ambit of the First Amendment."
Furthermore, the panel ruled, U.S. District Court Judge William Hansen, Des Moines, was not in error in upholding the right of the inmates in a previous decision.
The warden of the penitentiary, Lou V. Brewer, and two penitentiary chaplains has appealed the district court ruling contending the Church of the New Song is not a religion.
As noted by the lower court, the appeals court decision said, the question of the church can be dealt with by both the prison administration staff and the court in the event it should be subsequently found to be a hoax.
Judges writing the unsigned decision of the appellate court were Floyd R. Gibson, Roy L. Stephenson and William H. Webster.

The Church of the New Song was started in 1970 by a federal prisoner at Atlanta, Ga., named Harry Theriault. The church stresses that an individual desires should take precedence over any authority, provided the individual's actions bring him inner peace and do not disturb the inner peace of others.
Hansen had said in his ruling that Protestant and Catholic services at the state penitentiary did not fulfill the needs of members of the Church of the New Song.

Wife of man charged with murder arrested

Vernice Brown, 34, 217 East St. Louis, the wife of accused murderer Charles "Chuck" Brown, was arrested by Sedalia police shortly before midnight Thursday and charged with soliciting for the purpose of prostitution.

Mrs. Brown allegedly propositioned two police officers who were driving in the area in a private vehicle.

A source at the police department indicated that, although the two officers were in uniform, they were wearing civilian jackets over their shirts at the time of the alleged solicitation.

Using officers in unmarked cars and civilian clothing is reportedly part of a recent effort by police to curtail prostitution in the city.

The two officers were said to be in the car when Mrs. Brown came onto the porch of her home and told the officers to "come on over," according to the police.

Mrs. Brown posted a $200 signed bond and was released with a court date of April 29.

Chuck Brown is being held in the Pettis County jail on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the Jan. 22 shooting death of Richard Boggs at Brown's home. The trial date for Brown has been set for May 22-24.

Change of venue is asked by woman

Hazel M. Priesmeyer, 25, 309 North Grand was granted a change of venue Thursday from Pettis County to Cooper County Circuit Court.

She is charged with stealing a 1968 Oldsmobile in June, 1972, from Routsong-Malmo Motors, 2901 South Limit.

Sept. 10 was set as her jury trial date in Cooper County Circuit Court.

Hazel Priesmeyer alleged in her petition for the change of venue that she could not obtain a fair trial in Pettis County because of the bias and prejudice of county residents.

She also pleaded "not guilty" to the charge Thursday in Circuit Court here.

Arraignment held for Kansas man

WARSAW — A Kansas City, Kan., man was arraigned at Benton County Magistrate Court here Friday on a charge of stealing merchandise valued at more than $50.

Authorities identified him as Steven W. Owens. He remains in the Benton County jail in lieu of $7,500 bond.

Owens is charged with stealing a 1969 Ford Mustang Tuesday night at Cole Camp. The vehicle is owned by Marvin Harms, Cole Camp.

Benton County Deputy Sheriff Robert Hamner said Owens was arrested Tuesday night at Blue Springs by the Highway Patrol. He reportedly was driving the vehicle owned by Harms at the time he was stopped.

Hamner said Owens is out on parole now from a Kansas penitentiary. He originally was sent there on a manslaughter charge, the deputy sheriff added.

Household items stolen from home

Barbara Brown, 1708 South Sneed, Thursday reported the theft of carpets, dishes and other household items valued at $144.

She told police the items were taken between 1:30 and 3:30 p.m. Tuesday from her home at 1019 West 10th, while she was in the process of moving to another house.

In other police news, 60 gallons of gasoline were stolen from the Sedalia Country Club, 2800 South Limit.

Mike Dalton, an employee, told police the gas was taken from a 300 gallon tank next to the tennis court. The lock on the tank had been pried off to gain access.

Patrick Watkins, 508 South Engineer, reported the theft of his car from Sixth and Engineer, sometime Wednesday or Thursday.

unsuccessful methods to alleviate the problem, including chemical applications. The birds' droppings are regularly cleaned off the ledges by county firefighters using hoses.

What's next if the snakes don't work? Rubber cats?

"No one has suggested that yet," Bluhm laughed. "But someone probably will."

Escapes injury

The driver of this truck, Billie Barnhart, 35, Eldon, narrowly escaped injury about 3:20 p.m. Thursday afternoon when a blown tire caused the truck to overturn about one-fourth of a mile north of the Main Street overpass on Highway 65. The two-ton truck, owned by Howard Construction Co., 1509 North Ohio, was loaded with plywood and lumber. Eight 50-pound boxes of nails were in the cab with Barnhart at the time of the accident, but none of them struck him when the truck overturned. Here he is shown carrying one of the boxes toward the side of the road as a Sedalia police officer investigates.

Sweeping subpoena on Nixon materials

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House is pondering what to do about a sweeping subpoena that orders President Nixon to turn over a mass of tapes and documents to be used in the Watergate cover-up trial of his former top lieutenants.

The subpoena issued Thursday by U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica directs Nixon to give the Watergate special prosecutor tapes and documents covering 64 presidential conversations.

Special prosecutor Leon Jaworski had asked Sirica last Tuesday to issue the subpoena after what he said were unsuccessful efforts to negotiate a voluntary agreement with the White House.

The subpoena was served late Thursday afternoon about two hours after Sirica signed it. It orders the materials turned over by 10 a.m. May 2.

Withholding subpoenaed materials needed for the conduct of a trial is a tougher legal problem than resisting such requests from investigatory bodies. Two of the defendants in this case joined the prosecutor in requesting that the materials be subpoenaed.

The new subpoena requests materials specifically for evidence in the trial, scheduled to start Sept. 9, of former White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman, ex-chief domestic adviser John D. Ehrlichman, former attorney general and Nixon campaign manager John N. Mitchell, and four others.

Earlier subpoenas issued by the prosecutor's office had sought information for the grand jury rather than for a trial.

Wall marks are a constant bother

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve really stems from the high cost of postage. I think greeting card companies could help us with the high cost of postage by making "Greeting Postcards" as they would take the eight cent stamps formerly used on first class. This would be especially helpful with Christmas card mailing. — MRS. H.E.N.

DEAR POLLY — Lucy should be able to find several different types of finishes to apply to her Mexican and Indian pottery pieces at a ceramic shop. Doubtless she will not get a really shiny finish without firing but there are stain and water resistant finishes that can be applied to the outside of many such pottery pieces. (POLLY'S NOTE: Such items should be used for decoration only.) — KATHIE L.

DEAR POLLY — I do not know how Lucy could refinish her Mexican pottery but I would like to caution her against using it for food. Several years ago a leading magazine printed several articles about people becoming quite ill from using such pottery that had not been correctly treated.

Sometimes ago you published a Pointer that told of an herb that would keep insects out of cereals and flour. Could you repeat this? (POLLY'S NOTE: A bay leaf or two in each container does the trick.) — ARLINE.

DEAR POLLY — I find talcum powder very helpful, in fact almost magic, in controlling shredded foam when working with it. I powder my hands and arms and sprinkle some in the top of the bag and around the edges of the article I am filling. — ANNE W.

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is for tea drinkers. When I make hot tea I brew it in a tea pot and make two cups with each tea bag. If I do not drink all the tea while it is hot I pour the remainder into a half gallon jar. When the jar is full I season the tea and have good iced tea for the family members who like the cold drink.

Also, when washing acrylic sweaters, socks and other wash-and-wear things turn them inside out before washing and they do not get nubby and I think they wear longer. — JOAN

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — How can cloth picture hangers that stick on the wall be removed without leaving a mark or ruining the paint?

In transferring an embroidery pattern, not all the unnecessary marks were cut away and were transferred along with the design. Is there any way these marks can be removed safely or what could be done so the piece does not have to be discarded? — MRS. P. L. B. (NEA)

Young Audience Bankers are concert is set subpoenaed in for school here Houtchens case

Young Audiences Concerts feature small professional ensembles specially trained in the Young Audiences approach to music education. Music and dialogue are mixed in order to actively involve children in the concerts.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Three Independence, Mo., bankers have been subpoenaed to bring in records next week as a federal grand jury continues its investigation of the affairs of Delton Houtchens of Clinton, former state Democratic chairman.

They are C.W. Knoepker Jr., president of the Bank of Independence; Allen L. Lefko, president of the Noland Road Bank, and James Nicol, board chairman of the First National Bank.

They have been instructed to bring documents on all business between the banks and Houtchens from 1965 to 1974.

In the last two months the grand jury has subpoenaed many witnesses and documents concerning Houtchens' public relations business while Houtchens was state party chairman.

PTSA service award

Earl Finley, Smith-Cotton High School principal, received an award from the high school PTSA Thursday night for his "whole-hearted support of PTSA." Mrs. Marjorie Lindstrom PTSA president, presented the award and thanked a surprised Finley for "going to bat" for the group. "He was always there to help us," she added. In other business, Mrs. Lindstrom announced that a meeting would be held before the end of school to elect new PTSA officers. Elections had been scheduled for the Thursday meeting, but the nominating committee had not yet produced a slate of candidates.

One reader's shocking tale

Dear Dr. Lamb — I get a terrific shock every time I touch something metal at home, work, shopping, getting out of a car, etc. I have even shocked other people.

It's a crazy situation, and it's beginning to get me down. Can anything be done about it?

Dear Reader — This is more common than you apparently realize. In modern operating rooms, the personnel must all wear grounded shoes, or shoe coverings. A wire conductor connection is placed inside the sock to connect the body to the grounded footwear. This is done because everyone has some degree of the problem you describe.

You are storing static electricity. It is capable of giving off a spark. Since there are explosive gases used in the operating rooms, it is very important that no spark occur, hence the grounded footwear.

You might check with some of the medical supply houses in your city and see if they can offer you any footwear that would do the trick.

As you know, after you have discharged the static electricity from touching something metal or a person you will not have another immediate discharge shock until you have built up electricity again. If you continually discharge electricity you won't build up a static charge. I suppose if it is really a problem you could have a piece of metal in the heel of your shoe that touches the surface of the floor and connects to a piece of metal that has contact with your bare heel. This would serve as a constant ground wire and prevent accumulation of static electricity.

Baseball team topic for talk

Kiwanians got a rundown on the Smith-Cotton baseball team at their meeting Thursday noon at the Bothwell Hotel.

Skip Schultz, head coach, said the team has lost only one of 11 games this season. "I've looked forward to this team for the last three years," he added.

Schultz reviewed some of the stand-out players on the Tigers team, including first baseman Bryan Kennon, who accompanied him.

The coach said he strives to instill mental skills in his players as well as physical ones. He said team members must know the rules of the game first, and then have a firm grasp of certain plays to succeed.

With the proper combination of mental and physical abilities the Smith-Cotton baseball team "can stay among the top teams in the state," Schultz said.

Lindy Wilson introduced the program.

Martin Banich, president of Design Devices, was a guest of John St. Clair.

Poor nations get no leadership from the U.S.

WASHINGTON — The average American didn't know it, but most of the world waited eagerly, nervously, for Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's United Nations speech Monday on the crisis in raw materials.

Rowan

For much of the world is on the brink of economic calamity, and it was hoped that Kissinger's speech would promise a selfless U. S. leadership that would steer the nations of the world away from suicidal conflict.

Watching hopefully was India, faced with a shortfall of almost a million tons of fertilizer imports, which will mean a shortfall of perhaps 10 million tons of grain — and a $2 billion blow to her already shaky economy.

Listening in something close to desperation were the leaders of the 40 or so poorest nations of the world, which contain almost a billion people. With the prices of wheat and nitrogenous fertilizer more than three times the 1972 level, and with oil prices soaring, these developing countries will have to pay some $15 billion more for essential imports this year than they paid last year. That increase is almost double the $8 billion these poor countries will get in development assistance from the wealthy countries.

Awaiting Kissinger almost pitifully were the nations of what is now called "the Fourth World," those countries already beset by drought and near-famine, countries doomed to political upheaval — like hunger-plagued Niger, where a military coup overthrew President Hamani Diori just hours before Kissinger spoke.

But Henry Kissinger's speech was a bitter disappointment. For, after days of fumbling revisions, it was nothing more than cautious platitudes reflecting a desperately troubled administration which does not dare to offer economic leadership that might demand or cause any sacrifices on the part of Americans.

Kissinger again threw out a warning to oil-producing nations not to push prices to the point of endangering world prosperity. But what the world needed was statesmanship, where Kissinger would admit that the U. S. is as much a key to the world economy as the Arabs and oil-rich nations; where Kissinger would pledge a high level of U. S. behavior and dare the Arabs and the industrial countries to follow us.

Neither Kissinger nor the other American leaders have admitted even to the American people that we are to that most precious of resources, food, what the Arabs are to oil. We exorcise the oil producers for their price increases, but say nothing about the fact that wheat prices leaped from $1.25 a bushel to $6.40 before settling around $4. That is the main reason why our agricultural exports jumped by $7 billion to $20 billion this year.

James P. Grant, president of the Overseas Development Council, points out that the fertilizer shortfall of the poor countries is just about the amount we in the United States will use on our lawns, cemeteries and golf courses this summer.

"As the grain reserves diminish and as the world depends for the first time in human history on one common pool for its food supply, people in the United States should know that the way we eat — and fertilize our lawns — is affecting lives everywhere." Grant recently told a Senate subcommittee. He expressed the belief that, if given a choice, so as to prevent mass starvation, Americans would use less fertilizer on lawns and golf courses and even modify their diets so they don't use five times as much grain as a South Asian.

But there are people in the administration who believe that the American people are not of a generous mood to sacrifice on fertilizers or anything else just to help hungry people in the Sahel or Bangladesh or India. What's more, they view it as politically hazardous even to suggest such sacrifice. Which is why Kissinger's speech wound up a disappointment.

And that is why the world stumbles on toward calamities of which most Americans haven't even been made aware.

The uncommon cold

By DOUG KNEIBERT

I wish the person who invented the term "common cold" had mine. He would find it anything but common.

Take the average person: he catches his cold in the winter, when it's cold and gray and sloppy outside and he doesn't have much else to do anyway.

Not me. I always get mine in the springtime, or even early summer. That way you can be home feeling lousy when you could be out playing tennis, sailing or hunting mushrooms.

Where your average cold might last a few days or a week at the most, mine manage to hang on up to two or three weeks. They start with a slightly lousy—make that loggier than usual—feeling upon getting out of bed in the morning, and build to a crescendo, complete with runny nose, bleary eyes, sneezes and stuffed-up head.

The trouble with my colds is that they are just bad enough to make you feel miserable, but not bad enough to put you in bed where you can read a good book and get your meals on a tray, and perhaps even qualify for some sympathy from members of your family.

Instead you walk around sneezing, blowing your nose at the dinner table and snapping at the kids. Pretty soon the family is taking up a collection to send you to a Swiss sanatorium.

Most people accept the fact that the only thing you can do for a cold is wait it out. But by accident I stumbled upon a sure cure—daytime TV.

One good dose of "Search For Tomorrow," "The Young and the Restless" and the "Newlywed Game" is guaranteed to have you on your feet and out of the house in no time.

Sedalia, in some respects, seems to go out of its way to ignore Scott Joplin.

With the ragtime festival coming up, Joplin's music at the top of the classical record charts, and his music being performed at more and more "respectable" places, you would think that the music establishments in the city might put out a little extra effort to capitalize on the composer.

On the contrary, you wouldn't know Joplin existed from walking into most music or record stores in the city. Those few that had some Joplin music books seemed to go out of their way to hide them. No special displays, nothing to say, "Heh, look, here's Sedalia's Scott Joplin!"

How about it, music sellers? Let's set up some Joplin "nooks," maybe with a portrait or other backdrop, and let your customers know that Sedalia is the true Cradle of Classic Ragtime.

These could be permanent displays, not just for the festival.

Public health care requires a clinic

If things go well, the Pettis County Nursing Service may soon have a home of its own.

Last month the County Court approved making application for federal funds to finance half the cost of a county health clinic. This week the advisory council to the nursing service revealed preliminary plans for about a $65,000 clinic, and specified a location near Bothwell Hospital.

The land, at Thompson Avenue and 15th Street, is owned by the city and would be donated for a health clinic, according to the chairman of the advisory council. This makes the proposal all the more attractive.

Starting out on a shoe string, both in terms of finances and personnel, in 1968, the Pettis County Nursing Service has come to fill an important role in providing public health care. It deserves continued support.

It's facilities, however, leave a great deal to be desired. Located on the second floor of the courthouse, the office, as it exists now, is little more than that. There are no examination rooms nor adequate provisions for private consultations.

Being housed as it is in a busy public building virtually guarantees that certain persons who might otherwise be inclined to use the service will not do so. This is especially true in the case of those who fear they might have venereal disease, the control of which is one of the main arguments for a county health facility.

The city has pledged $10,000 from federal revenue sharing funds toward a county health clinic. The remainder of the local share will have to come from other sources. We would certainly assume that the Pettis County Court would likewise utilize some of its revenue sharing funds to construct the building, once federal approval is granted.

Strong pressures made Agnew quit

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Spiro Agnew grimly told aides after his abdication last October that the White House had brought "terrible" pressures on him to give up the vice presidency.

The White House feared he would lose his fight to stay in office, said Agnew, thereby setting a bad precedent for President Nixon's own struggle against impeachment. Agnew felt compelled to resign in exchange for a deal to keep out of jail.

Only a few hours after the high drama in a Baltimore courtroom, we have now learned, he discussed his action individually with trusted aides.

"There are things you don't know about and pressures that were brought on me that you may never know about," he told one aide, who has now recounted the conversation to us.

To another aide, Agnew described the White House as "ruthless" and the pressure it brought on him as "terrible."

What pressures? For one, the White House staff chief, Alexander Haig, had called Agnew's top aide, Art Sohmer, and had warned brutally that the vice president could end up behind bars if he continued his fighting tactics.

But the Agnew aides were familiar with this incident; they knew the President was maneuvering to ease their man out. What, then, were the terrible, unknown pressures?

One former aide told us he had learned from Agnew's Secret Service bodyguards that the pressure were "personal." Another former aide said he "understood" that Agnew wanted to protect his family from embarrassing revelations.

Washington Post reporters Richard Cohen and Jules Witcover in their carefully researched Agnew book, "A Heartbeat Away," allude cautiously to "spicy insights into Agnew's personal life."

They report that "several witnesses had volunteered very damaging information about aspects of Agnew's personal life." These findings, they assert, were "ruled out of bounds" by the prosecutors.

The suppressed statements to the prosecutors, we have learned, dealt with allegations that a Maryland contractor had provided Agnew with a call girl in exchange for government favors.

Agnew told us that the call girl charge was "laughable" and "ridiculous," and played no part in his decision to resign as vice president. He knew who had told the prosecutors these stories, he said, and the contractor was a "congenial liar... a wild man."

Agnew said he had told his wife all about the sex charges and, therefore, any threat to reveal these charges couldn't possibly have been used as a weapon against him.

Another story linked Agnew with a friend of Blaze Starr, the famed, fiery burlesque queen. She acknowledged to us that Agnew was a "steady customer" at her Baltimore strip joint, the Two O'Clock Club, during his county executive days. But she recalls him as a quiet man who sat in a corner, minding his own business.

FOOTNOTE: We obtained a draft copy of an autobiography Blaze Starr is writing for the Praeger publishing house. She doesn't mention Agnew, but recounts a romantic interlude with Philadelphia's law-and-order Mayor Frank Rizzo.

According to her account, she met Rizzo about 20 years ago when he was a police captain. He arrested her, she related, for her "Panther Woman" strip act in Philadelphia. This led eventually to a rendezvous with Rizzo in the apartment of one of his friends, she wrote. For awhile thereafter, she met him frequently.

Reached at his office in Philadelphia, Mayor Rizzo fumed that the story "absolutely is not true... All I ever did to her was arrest her."

The publishers told us that they gave Blaze Starr a lie detector test about the Rizzo revelations before accepting her manuscript. She passed the test completely, they said.

In contrast, the mayor made news recently when he offered to take a lie detector test about an alleged pay-off and then failed the test.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: President Nixon identifies more and more lately with people who fight against the odds. During a recent White House discussion on the Middle East, according to the secret minutes, he suddenly blurted: "I admire those Israelis. They've got guts. How they will fight!"... House Speaker Carl Albert advised us privately to disregard speculation about how the House will vote on President Nixon's impeachment. Albert said he was convinced from cloakroom conversations that the majority are waiting for the House Judiciary Committee to lay out the evidence...

Sources close to the impeachment inquiry say the grand jury evidence, which was delivered to the committee in such great secrecy, contains little new material. But the compilation of all the existing evidence, say our sources, adds up to a "devastating case against the President"... Anatol Michelson, a Soviet Jew who defected to the West in 1956, has been trying for nearly two decades to get his wife and daughter out of Russia. Now 55 and in failing health, he has given up hope of ever seeing his family again after a personal plea to Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin was disregarded.

There is nothing wrong about swindling your opponents provided you do it honestly. Thus, you are not supposed to hesitate when you have no problem, but there is no stigma attached to fast play, when you do have some sort of problem. South did have a problem about his six-diamond contract. What was he going to do about the two missing aces? Obviously, they were split, but how could he keep the man who held the ace of trumps from leading a spade? It looked almost hopeless, but South figured out an honest swindle that just might work if West held the ace of trumps and jack of spades. He proceeded to discard his six of clubs on one good heart and the queen of clubs on the other one. Then he led a trump. West won the ace and decided that East was marked with four clubs to the ace. In that case if East also held the spade king, a spade lead would allow South to play dummy's 10 and avoid the loss of a spade trick. So West led a third heart and South was able to discard his three spades on dummy's clubs.

Bucks 113, Bulls 111

Milwaukee goes two up on Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar was near perfection Thursday night but his Milwaukee Bucks teammates "made a lot of dumb mistakes" and instead of an easy victory over the Chicago Bulls they had to settle for a 113-111 decision.

Nevertheless, the Bucks took a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven semifinal series. Game No. 3 will be played in Milwaukee Saturday afternoon with the fourth game scheduled for Chicago Monday night.

"I thought we were going to win it in the fourth quarter," said a dejected Dick Motta, coach of the Chicago Bulls.

Larry Costello, coach of the Bucks, tried to explain how his team, leading 77-57 well into the third quarter, came within an eyelash of defeat.

"We made a lot of dumb mistakes down the stretch," said Costello.

In an American Basketball Association game, the Indiana Pacers scored a 118-107 victory over the Utah Stars.

In NBA action tonight, the Boston Celtics host the New York Knicks.

The Bulls, playing without injured Jerry Sloan again, made a battle of it in the first quarter. At one point they led by four but fell behind 30-29 at the end of the period.

Jabbar scored 12 points in the first quarter and pumped in 15 more in the second as the Bucks rolled to a 62-51 edge.

The Bulls came back on the shooting of Norm Van Lier and Howard Porter and it was 91-77 going into the final period as Jabbar's total soared to 42 points.

Then the game turned around. Jabbar managed only two points the rest of the way and Chet Walker, helped by Rick Adelman, started to chop away at the Milwaukee lead.

The Bulls scored 10 straight points in one stretch and crept within six points at 93-87.

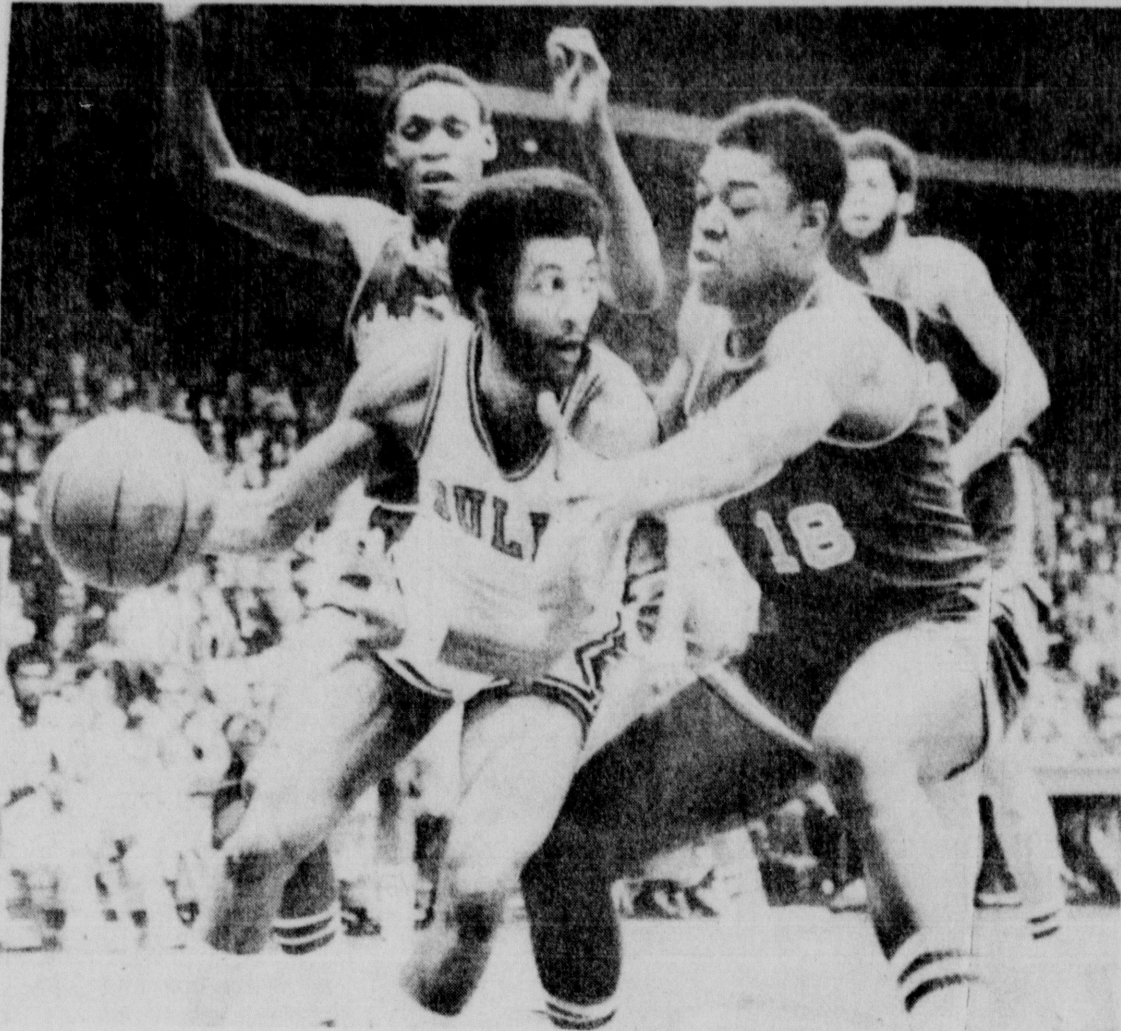

Walker and Norm Van Lier topped the Bulls with 27 points each.

Pacers 118, Stars 107

Indiana rallied from a 14-point deficit behind the shooting of Fred Lewis who finished with 40 points and George McGinnis who tallied 30.

The victory prevented Utah from sweeping the West Division playoffs and dethroning the defending American Basketball Association champions.

Indiana broke a five-game cold spell from the field with 52 per cent shooting and the Pacers converted 31 of 44 attempts from the foul line to 15 of 17 for Utah.

Bull-work

Chicago's Norm Van Lier brings the ball under the Bulls' basket during the second playoff series game against the Milwaukee Bucks Thursday night in Chicago. Milwaukee's Curtis Perry (18) tries to stop Van Lier's penetration. However, Van Lier was able to get around Perry and score on a short jumper. Milwaukee won the game, 113-111, to go two up on the Bulls.

Betsy Cullen leads by 2

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — A year ago, Mickey Wright came to this desert resort to become a student of golf under a local pro. It paid off with a $25,000 victory in the Dinah Shore Winners Circle LPGA championship.

Betsy Cullen, an Oklahoman who used to fret when the wind blew, arrived in Palm Springs a month ago and the 35-year-old, nine-year veteran went directly to John Rebolta, teaching pro at Tamarisk Country Club.

Miss Cullen hasn't won the richest tournament in the history of women's golf but, with the wind as an ally—not an enemy—she whipped the wind-blown 6,382-yard Mission Hills Golf and Country Club course in two-under-par 70 for a one-stroke lead entering today's second round of the $200,000 tournament.

"I arrived a month early to work with Rebolta," said Miss Cullen, who led Jo Ann Prentice by one stroke—the only other gal among 51 to break par as winds gusted more than 35 miles per hour, blowing sand and golf shots.

Miss Wright, the defending champion who withdrew because of recent foot surgery, has a record 82 LPGA championships in 20 years. Miss Cullen has been victorious twice in eight prior years, the 1972 Sears Classic and the 1973 Alamo Open.

Today's tee off times were put back one hour to 10 a.m. (PDT) because of the forecast for diminishing wind.

Midwest harness racing fans will be happy to know that the famed Hambletonian hasn't been moved away from the DuQuoin, Ill., State Fair—yet.

The Hambletonian, called by harness people, the Kentucky Derby of trotting, for 17 years has been held in DuQuoin, but it was announced last October by the Hambletonian Society that Liberty Bell in Philadelphia had been awarded a three-year contract beginning in 1975.

However, Tuesday, Philadelphia backers decided to abandon their plan, leaving the Hambletonian at least temporarily without a home.

DuQuoin, according to an Associated Press report, doesn't have the inside track. But Max Hempt, who is the president of the Hambletonian Society said in making the announcement Tuesday night that Liberty Bell Park had dropped plans for this year's race, said, "I think if DuQuoin is still interested, the fact that they are interested would make it a strong contender."

But two other tracks have shown strong interest in booking the Hambletonian—Saratoga Springs, N.Y., and Syracuse, N.Y.

The Society notified all the cities that had submitted bids last fall and asked that they reply by April 28 on whether or not they were still interested.

Hempt said Liberty Bell's withdrawal came as a surprise.

The Hambletonian is the richest United States event for three-year-old trotters.

The Sedalia Recreation Department got a little help from the District 200 School Board Tuesday night, when the Board decided to permit the use of two baseball fields at the Sedalia Junior High School by the Park Board this summer.

However, the measure looks like from this corner as a temporary stop-gap measure for the shrinking availability of fields in the city.

City Recreation Director

Roscoe Righter hit the nail on the head when he recently indicated that there aren't enough places for the teams to play.

The city needs to come up with a plan that will provide the city with an adequate number of facilities.

Sedalia Bowling Association Publicity Chairman Betty Schaberg reports that three members of the organization were "stars of the lanes recently when they converted tough splits."

Although she didn't see it, Mrs. Pat Morris, Dresden converted the 7-10, when she was bowling in the Wednesday night Stream Liners League.

After her delivery, Mrs. Morris turned around and headed back to the seating area. When her teammates told Mrs. Morris that she had converted the tough split, she replies, "Oh sure I did."

After turning around to see if the alley was empty, her comment changed to, "... the pins are gone."

She will be presented a WIBC (Women's International Bowling Congress) patch for the accomplishment.

Enter the kids. Malinda Jett and Mike Phillips upstaged Mrs. Morris with their conversions of the 4-6-7-10.

Malinda, 7, daughter of Linda Jett of 1410 East Fifth, picked up the split during Bantam Girls Division competition.

Mike, 15, son of Lloyd C. Phillips, 1202 South Lamine, made his conversion in the Junior and Seniors Boys and Girls Division.

Two days ago, Columbia Hickman was all but out of the Central Missouri baseball picture. But how things have changed in the last 48 hours.

Hickman, the defending champion, posted its second doubleheader sweep in as many days Thursday defeating Jefferson City, 6-2 and 4-1, to push its league record to the .500 mark for the first time this season at 4-4.

Wednesday, Hickman posted back-to-back 6-4 wins against Hannibal for the team's first CMC victories of the season.

With Thursday's results in, the two and one-half game series between Sedalia Smith-Cotton and Hannibal, which gets underway at 1 p.m. Saturday in Liberty Park Stadium, are the biggest games to date facing S-C coach Ralph "Skip" Schulz.

The Tigers, undefeated in five league outings, are in front of the four-team field, but to pad their position, the Bengals need to stay in the victory column.

Saturday's card begins in the fifth inning of a suspended game that was halted by rain three weeks ago in Hannibal.

Bill Knepp is opposing Smith-Cotton's Mark Stockstill. The game will be resumed in the top of the fifth with none out and none on. Hannibal leads 2-0.

Schulz tabbed as his pitchers for the regularly-scheduled twinbill Mark Thomason (2-0) and Paul Kostopolus (4-0).

"If I need another one (pitcher), I'll have to use Stockstill again," Schulz said.

Schulz called up Pat and Pete Fiene from the junior varsity for pitching help Saturday.

No changes are expected in the regular Tigers' lineup. Brian Kennon, Greg Boehne, Jim Sanders and Rick McRoy will be around the infield. Schulz can use Jim Vansell, Kostopolus, Ron Ehlers and Randy Pettit in the outfield.

Thursday's stars

By The Associated Press
PITCHING — George "Doc" Medich, Yankees, checked the Boston Red Sox on four hits to lead New York to a 6-1 victory.

BATTING — Ralph Garr, Braves, banged three hits, stretching his hot streak to seven straight safeties, scored twice and knocked in two runs to lead Atlanta to a 7-2 victory over the San Diego Padres.

Pete Kostopolus will be behind the plate.

Among the regulars, Boehne leads the team in hitting with a .375 mark, batting six-for-16.

Hard-hitting Kennon, who has two home runs to his credit this season, follows with a .366 mark. Pete Kostopolus, who has also homered twice this season is hitting .348, while Sanders is batting .342.

As a team, the Tigers have fashioned a .287 team batting mark.

Schulz received some good news on his lone southpaw hurler, Greg Bechtel. Bechtel, who was suffering from tendonitis, is back throwing. Schulz wasn't sure when he would be able to get back in the regular pitching rotation.

Bruce Jenner claims decathlon

Kansas Relays into full swing

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Some of the nation's top college athletes were primed to display their best today as the 49th annual Kansas Relays picked up momentum.

Four of the stars hope to win their third straight championships by late afternoon Saturday in this highly regarded track and field carnival, and a handful of other champions are on hand for the final two days of action in the four-day show.

Seeking three titles in succession are Terry Ziegler of the Tulsa, Okla., Running Club in the marathon; Wendy Koenig Knudson of the Colorado Gold Club in the women's 880; Larry Mears of the Air Force in the Masters Mile, and Barry Schur of Kansas in the university-college high jump.

Among the other returning champions are Gregg Vandaveer of Kansas in the high jump and Terry Porter, also of Kansas, in the pole vault; George Stevens of Oklahoma State in the shot put; Marshall Smith of Colorado State University in the discus; and Larry Jones of Northeast Missouri State in the quarter-mile.

Finals were set today in the four-mile, sprint medley and 880-yard relays, 440-yard intermediate hurdles, pole vault, shot put, triple jump and open 100-yard dash.

So Porter and Stevens expected to find out very quickly whether they'll be challenged successfully.

The other finals are Saturday.

Bruce Jenner, a former Graceland (Iowa) College athlete and now a real estate salesman in San Jose, Calif., and Phil Ndoe of Eastern New Mexico both set meet records Thursday.

Jenner, relying heavily on second- and third-place finishes, broke the record in the decathlon with an amazing collection of 8,240 points. Ndoe was timed in 28 minutes 22.2 seconds in the six mile.

In the 10 decathlon events, Jenner won only the javelin, with a toss of 210 feet, and tied in another, the 110-meter hurdles in 14.7 seconds. Bill Hancock of Southern Illinois shared the latter crown with Jenner.

Jeff Bennett of the Eagle Track Club in Oklahoma City, who set the old decathlon record with 7,704 points in 1970, won the pole vault with a 15-8 1/4 performance and took second place with 7,939 points.

Hancock was third with 7,419, and unattached Dave Bahr, who won the discus with a throw of 161-0 1/2, was fourth with 7,042. Danny Orange of Wyoming grabbed Thursday's other individual title, running the 1,500 meter in 4:14.4.

Ndoe's performance bettered the record of 28:42.6 set by Sid Sink of Bowling Green in 1971. Trailing him in the six mile were Ted Castaneda of Colorado in 28:36.7 and Charlie Vigil of Adams State in Colorado in 29:05.7.

Giacomin tough in goal

Rangers eliminate Stanley Cup champions

NEW YORK (AP) — You can add a new adage to hockey's vast collection of proverbs courtesy of Emile Francis and the New York Rangers.

"We proved," said the general manager-coach of the Rangers, "that a team that refused to be beat, can't be beat."

Francis' club climaxed a comeback Thursday night, beating Montreal for the third straight game, this time 5-2, and eliminating the Canadiens in the opening round of the National Hockey League playoffs.

They did it because goalie Ed Giacomin all but demanded that they do. They did it because of almost flawless penalty killing by Walt Tkaczuk and Bill Fairbairn. They did it because of an airtight checking job on Yvan Cournoyer by Bruce MacGregor, who also pitched in with a series-high six goals.

And they did it because, as Francis said, they just refused to be beaten.

In other NHL action Thursday, the Chicago Black Hawks beat the Boston Bruins 4-2, while in the World Hockey League, Minnesota trimmed Houston 5-4 in sudden death overtime.

In a WHA game tonight, Chicago is at Toronto.

New York seemed dead after dropping the second and third games of the series and trailing the best-of-seven set 2-1. That was when Giacomin took charge. "I'm going to be the leader. Somebody has to and I'm the oldest guy. We're going to win this thing."

Giacomin fulfilled that role. In each of the last three games of the series the team had to battle from behind and each time, they got the job done. In the end, the capacity Madison Square Garden crowd saluted the gritty goalie with rhythmic chants. And when the Rangers left the ice, Giacomin returned the salute, thrusting his fist in the air triumphantly.

With time running out, Montreal lifted goalie Bunny Larroque for a sixth attacker. Twice in the final minute, Pete Stenkowski scored into the empty net, clinching the victory that sent New York into the semifinals against Philadelphia beginning Saturday night.

It marked the third straight year the Rangers have eliminated the defending Stanley Cup champions in the first round of the playoffs. Boston was victimized last year and the Canadiens two years ago.

"Maybe it's an omen," said Francis. "Maybe it's our turn to get one for ourselves now."

Black Hawks 4, Bruins 2
Johnny Marks, a converted defenseman, proved to be the defensive star as he scored the tie-breaking goal late in the third period.

Marks fired from about 12 feet to give the Hawks the opener of the NHL semifinal playoff series.

Goalie Tony Esposito, who allowed only two goals in the Black Hawks' first-round playoff victory over Los Angeles, turned in another strong performance, kicking out 46 shots.

Saints 5, Aeros 4
High-scoring Mike Walton slapped a goal at 1:40 of an overtime period to give Minnesota a 1-0 lead in their best of seven World Hockey Association series.

The Aeros had come from behind twice on goals by Larry Lund at 1:55 of the third period and Ted Taylor at 10:46 to force the sudden-death overtime.

McGlothen helps own cause

Cardinals salvage final game of Phillies series

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — When the St. Louis Cardinals and Boston Red Sox started talking big deal last December, the Cards insisted that right-hand pitcher Lynn McGlothen had to be part of any package they accepted.

The Cards finally got McGlothen, along with pitchers John Curtis and Mike Garman, for pitchers Reggie Cleveland and Diego Segui and infielder Terry Hughes.

"I never saw him pitch until spring training," said St. Louis manager Red Schoendienst. "I saw him pitch in the Cardinals' Thursday night after McGlothen posted his second victory of the young season by beating the Philadelphia Phillies, 6-2."

The 24-year-old McGlothen pitched seven innings as he snapped the Phillies' six-game winning streak. He allowed seven hits, walked four and struck out two. He left the game only because he strained his left knee.

McGlothen not only pitched well, he broke up a scoreless game in the fifth inning with a two-run double into the right field corner. Later, he covered the plate and made the tag on Mike Anderson sliding in with what would have been the tying run in the sixth inning.

The 6-foot-2 McGlothen was concerned about his knee after the game. It took some of the glow out of his second victory. He beat Pittsburgh last week.

McGlothen recalled only two well the operation on the knee last season when he was with the Red Sox. He wound up back in the minor leagues, finishing 2-4 at Pawtucket, but impressing St. Louis scouts with a two-hit shutout against the Cards' Tulsa farm club in the Little World Series.

McGlothen hurt the knee Thursday night in the sixth inning. The Phillies' Willie Montanez fouled a ball off his foot that rolled toward the pitching mound. McGlothen, thinking it was fair, lunged to his right to field the ball. He slipped and fell on his back.

Smith-Cotton golfers handle Hickman Kewps

John Price of Smith-Cotton was the medalist with a one-over 36. Dane Henningsen, who was even par with two holes to go, wound up with a 37 as did S-C teammate Mark Thomas.

Scott Pierson was low for Hickman with a 37.

The Tigers travel to Clinton Monday, and will open their delayed home season Tuesday, hosting Jefferson City in a make-up match Tuesday at Walnut Hills Country Club.

Fezler's 66 sets pace

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Soft-spoken young Forrest Fezler says he's playing less and enjoying it more this season.

"I was putting too much pressure on myself last year," golf's heartbreak kid said Thursday after his five-under-par 66 had set the pace in the opening round of the $150,000 Monsanto Open.

"I was trying to play every week, just grind it out. I'm not playing near as much this year and it seems easier. There's not so much pressure. I'm more relaxed," Fezler said.

Fezler, who didn't win a title but collected more than $100,000 last season, held a one-stroke advantage over Lee Elder, Chuck Courtney and big Chris Blocker, tied at 67, with another group of seven tied at 68 after one round of this chase for a $30,000 first prize.

Homero Blancas, who won this tournament a year ago, headed the latter group. He said his play was "miraculous... I could have had a 76 real easy."

Blancas once got it in the water, made three trips into the piney woods and found three of the sparkling white sand bunkers in his trip over the 6,679-yard Pensacola Country Club course.

But he pitched in from 45-50 yards to save par on one occasion, holed three putts in the 20-25 foot range and one-putted a total of nine times.

Many of the game's top names who last year made a habit of edging out Fezler for various titles are not competing in this event, including Gary Player, Jack Nicklaus, Tom Weiskopf, Johnny Miller, Lee Trevino, Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper.

Fezler needed only 27 putts in his solid round that included a single bogey. He holed one 30-footer for a birdie, hit a six iron to within a foot and once saved par from 15 feet on his front side.

$9.5 million offered to buy majority stock of Canucks

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — A Miami group headed by Dan Topping Jr. has offered to purchase a majority interest in Vancouver Canucks of the National Hockey League, former club President Thomas Scallen said Thursday.

Scallen said the Miami group had offered $9,463,000 for the 701,000 shares of the NHL team held by Medical Investments Corp., of Minneapolis, which is majority shareholder in the team.

There are 1,060,000 shares issued in Northwest Sports Ltd., the holding company for the club. The other approximately 400,000 shares are held by various groups and individuals.

Scallen, president of Medical Investments, stepped down as president of the Canucks after being convicted of theft by conversion of $3 million and issuing a false prospectus in Northwest Sports. He is free on bail pending an appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada.

The Miami group has offered $13.50 a share and Scallen said in a telephone interview from Minneapolis that the bid was the best he had received.

"I am disappointed that it appears necessary to find an American buyer," he said. "I hoped, in fact I would have preferred, to sell it to local owners but the best offer that I received locally was $11.25 a share."

Coley Hall, president of the Canucks, called the $13.50 offer "ridiculous."

Gremlins down Warsaw 'Cats' in dual match

Sedalia Sacred Heart won its second golf match of the season against Warsaw Thursday at Westmoreland Country Club, 222-270.

The victory pushed the Gremlins' record to 2-1 on the season.

Bill Beykirch toured the tight Westmoreland course with a three-over 39 to capture medalist honors for Sacred Heart.

John Shepardson was low for the Wildcats with his 44.

Only one more regular-season match is scheduled for Sacred Heart before next month's district meet; April 30, the Grems travel to Clinton. Clinton beat Sacred Heart earlier this week in a dual meet.

Results
Sedalia Sacred Heart (222) — Bill Beykirch 39, Joe Bellmer 42, Greg Beykirch 43, Chuck Schneider 43, Mark Register 55.

FCC releases report on 'no-shows'

NFL teams suffer little in pocketbook by lifting of the television blackout

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite dire predictions about the impact of the anti-blackout law last fall, the 26 National Football League teams suffered only minimal economic damage in televising sold-out home games locally, the government says.

In a 400-page report to Congress, the Federal Communications Commission said the big winner was the hometown fans who benefitted by having 109 of 180 home games televised in their cities, as opposed to only one in 1972.

"This means that the fans of home-team football were able to see their team play, which is what the law was designed to accomplish," said the FCC report, made public Thursday.

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., chairman of the Senate subcommittee on communications and one of the anti-blackout law's sponsors, said the FCC report supports what he has believed all along.

"I always felt, and felt sincerely, that the league was its own worst enemy in painting a pessimistic picture about lifting the blackout," he said.

In New York, NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle said the league fears the long-range effects of televising home games in home areas. He said the league didn't expect any serious financial effects to be felt in 1973 because 90 per cent of the tickets had been sold before the law was passed.

"Several clubs, including the Super Bowl champion Miami Dolphins, have noticed such season ticket-sale erosion for the 1974 season," Rozelle said.

But the FCC said, "It is unlikely that season ticket sales will be adversely affected by the law because there seems to be an excess demand for tickets. In fact, 1973 was the best season ever for the NFL."

The regulatory agency said there was an increase in the number of no-shows, fans who purchase tickets but don't attend the game. But "there is no indication that professional football is about to become a 'studio sport,' especially in view of the fact that actual attendance fell by only 57,570 or less than a half per cent," the FCC said.

The report also said the percentage of no-shows as 9.8 at games that were televised as against 9.1 for the games that were not televised locally.

With everybody talking about (and working for) gas economy, along comes Capri, the sexy European. It not only has European styling to brag about, but European ideas on gas economy are built right into it.

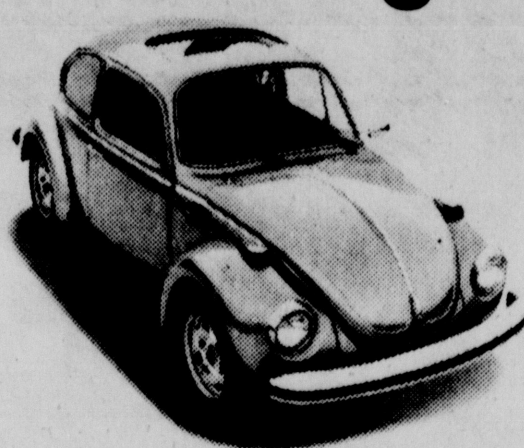

Still, these aren't the only reasons why Capri sold more cars in its first three years in America than any other import in history. Shown above are 16 other great reasons for making your next car a Lincoln-Mercury Capri. Everything you see is standard on the Capri—everything.

Ann Landers

Peculiar behavior caused by strokes

Dear Ann Landers: I am not writing for advice. I need an opinion.

A real tragedy has occurred in our family. My brother, a fine man in his 60s, respected and admired by everyone in the community, an impeccable dresser, well mannered, and recently retired, suddenly began to behave in a very peculiar manner.

He moved out of the house, leaving a devoted wife and teenage children. He has been living openly with a woman he picked up in a bar. She has been married several times and is known around town as a cheap tramp. He knew all this, but it seems to make little difference.

I feel certain that my brother has had a small stroke. There seems to be no other explanation for the extraordinary change in his personality. It is hard for me to envision him bringing so much unhappiness to his wife and family if he is in his right mind.

My sister-in-law does not want a divorce. She went to their family doctor and asked if perhaps her husband had suffered a slight stroke which might account for his strange behavior. The doctor just laughed, as if to say, "Don't be foolish."

Please comment, Ann. — Worried Relative.

Dear Relative: That doctor should stop laughing and start to read some medical literature. It is not uncommon for a person to have a series of small strokes and display no symptoms other than the alteration of behavioral pattern.

Your sister-in-law should talk to a few doctors who are better informed — and soon. It might not bring her husband home, but it would certainly put this tragedy in a different light.

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing in regard to a subject you are probably sick of by this time. I refer to the questionable fragrance of goats.

Why has no one pointed out that the Latin word for the male goat is "caper," the same word for the fragrance of the human arm-pits.

Apparently, two millennia ago, certain of the noblest Romans were situated downwind. Sign me — Truth-seeker in Burlington, Vermont.

Dear Truth-seeker: I always knew that Vermont had a lot to brag about (in addition to Senator George Aiken and maple syrup), so thanks for coming up with that double-dome nugget.

Dear Ann Landers: This letter is from New Haven, but I don't go to Yale, so please take it seriously. In fact, I am in the eighth grade of a private school.

The kids in my class are having a big hassle over whether or not it is possible to fall in love with someone of the opposite sex at the age of 13 or 14.

I say it is because I have done it twice already. The other kids say you have to be at least 17 or 18 years old before you can really fall in love, and even then that is sort of young. What do you say, Ann Landers? — Outnumbered.

Dear Out: I say the feelings that a 13- or 14-year-old mistakes for love or physical attraction (the glands are just beginning to call to one another) plus a little infatuation and a bit of romantic fantasy.

Please put this column away and look at it again when you are 17. Keep track of all the boys you think you are in love with between now and then. I'll bet you will have quite a list, Sweetie.

Jesse James park action is delayed

Chosen

Betty Hesse, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hesse, 2604 East 16th, recently was named secretary of the Student Chapter of the Missouri State Teachers Association at Central Missouri State University. She will attend a delegate assembly in Columbia April 26 and 27 and will also be honored at the Commerce Day Banquet on the CMSU campus April 25. She is a 1972 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School and is a junior business education major at CMSU.

KEARNEY, Mo. (AP) — An effort to turn the 40-acre Jesse James farm into a county park has been delayed by Probate Judge Rollie Baldwin.

Baldwin has appointed Donald Tripp, a Liberty attorney, as guardian of the James estate and said he should have a chance to make a financial success of it before it is sold for a park.

The Clay County Court ruled in 1967 that Mrs. Mae James, daughter-in-law of Jesse James' brother, Frank, was unable to handle business affairs. She is over 90 years old and lives in the Odd Fellows Home in Liberty.

Her friend, Mrs. Hazel Munckers of Kearney, was administering the estate but resigned last month.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development has given tentative approval for a $42,000 federal grant to buy the farm.

INTRODUCING THE DX TIRE STORE. AND WHY IT MAKES SENSE.

YOU SEE US EVERY WEEK.

We're the DX dealer who services your car. Who could know more about the way you drive and the tires you need than we do? Not some guy at a tire store you see every two years.

We get to know you. The kind of roads you drive. How many kids you have. The loads you pull. What kind of vacations you take. Things that help us recommend the right tire for you.

It wouldn't make sense not to offer you the right tire at our best price. We've got to treat you right, because we see you every week.

NO-COST BALANCING.

We don't understand why a tire store would sell you a tire and then charge you to make it work right on your car. So, as a participating DX dealer, we balance every tire we sell. No charge.

CREDIT TERMS.

When you buy tires from us, you can use your

DX credit card. In fact, you can get extended payment terms so that you don't have to pay all at once.

CONTINUOUS CHECK.

When you buy a set of our tires, we have a chance to look them over when you come in for service. If we find signs of poor alignment, improper balance or an imperfection, we can recommend what should be done to correct it.

BACKED BY TWO COMPANIES.

When you buy tires from a DX dealer, you're backed by the dealer himself, by DX and by Firestone or Goodyear. If there's something wrong with the tire you bought from us, and the dealer doesn't make it right, you've got two companies to look to. Not just one.

We can be very friendly. We sell good tires at competitive prices. We're in a position to evaluate the way our regular customers drive, so we can recommend the right tire for each of you. We can't afford to give you a bad deal. We'd lose the rest of your business. Doesn't that make sense?

THE DX TIRE STORE.

Goodyear or Firestone tires are sold by participating independent service station dealers displaying the DX sign. Tire prices and services offered, including balancing of tires, may vary. Tire guarantee terms are disclosed in writing at the time of purchase.

'Office' not for sales

By FRANK FARMER
Of The Springfield Leader-Press
For The Associated Press

OCIE, Mo. (AP) — A battered, weather-beaten log cabin bears a neat homemade sign alerting passers-by to the fact that it is the "office."

Deer antlers, wagon wheels and perhaps a hundred other items that would attract the eye of tourists and antique collectors decorate the outside walls of the cabin.

And there's more inside. Frank Hodges, proprietor of the little office along U.S. 160 near this Ozark community of 15 people, might be found inside huddled near an old wood burning stove keeping his eye on the old guns, cow bells and a dried up hornet's nest dangling from the walls.

Despite all the trappings outside, Hodges has nothing for sale in the little cabin.

"I collect odds and ends," says the 89-year-old Hodges.

"Somebody got something they tired of looking at, they bring it here and hang it up...Ain't nothing in here for sale."

Asked why he keeps all the odds and ends, Hodges replied: "If I didn't like to look at it, I'd haul off and sell it."

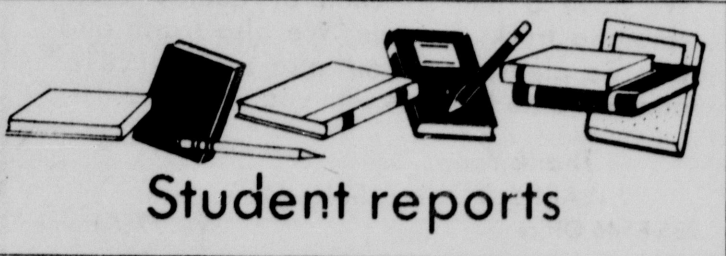

Hodges, once a veterinarian, is in the sales business, but he does his selling from a battered barn attached by a board wall to the office cabin.

He said he sells horses. "I've got registered fox trotters, coon hounds and milk goats. I sold out of fighting roosters."

"I ain't got nothing to sell now. But I got some goats comin' on and some colts," he said.

When Hodges isn't chatting with tourists or neighbors who come to loaf in his office or watering and feeding his stock, he goes horseback riding.

"I ride every day, if it ain't too rough," Hodges said. "Next to last show I rode in. I got two trophies," he said, waving his hand to show where he kept them.

The Yanks

Paul Adams (David Huffman, right) was an American doughboy who volunteered to go to France to fight in "the war to end all wars." Adams was symbolic of the enthusiastic young nation which entered World War I filled with hope and innocence. The dramatic story of this doughboy caught in the tragedy of war is the subject of "The Yanks Are Coming," an ABC Television Network special to air April 22.

Stones rolling again—on film

By STEPHEN FORD

NEW YORK (NEA) — The devotion of Rolling Stones fans long ago reached legendary proportions when many of them were found sleeping on city sidewalks in freezing temperatures so they could be first in line for tickets.

But despite this ordinarily ferocious devotion, such fans were heard to moan bitterly about the ticket prices, especially when they had to sit light years away from the stage and could see only a miniature Mick Jagger prancing about.

The miracle of cinematography may have provided a means of calming the dissidents: a feature film of the Stones' 1972 tour promoted and presented in much the same manner as their personal appearances and with just as much panache.

Though Don Paulsen, a spokesman for Richard Gersh Associates, the film's promoters, hesitates to suggest this movie may be a prototype, a source at Atlantic Records, which distributes all Stones' recordings in the United States, claims it is the wave of the future and that rock devotees can expect similar movies from many of the more popular groups.

Paulsen described the movie's Easter Sunday debut as "kind of a scaled-down Woodstock, Mardi Gras, early Electric Circus cum street fair," involving exclusive use of an entire block of Manhattan's most active section for a street carnival befitting the diabolical Stones — a saturnalia with mimes, sword-swallowers, fire-eaters, high-wire aerialists, Berber tribesmen, steel bands imported from Trinidad, glittery make-up, masks and bizarre costumes.

The 90-minute film, claimed to embody all the flash, excitement and histrionics of an in-the-flesh performance, is billed simply "Ladies and Gentlemen, the Rolling Stones," the standard introduction for the group in concert. It is booked for a 12-city tour following the two-week stand at New York's Ziegfeld Theater. In keeping with its "live tour" concept, tickets are available at Ticketron outlets only and are limited to four per person.

It will then open in scores of smaller towns over an 18-month period with tickets at the box office until anyone who wants to can see the most highly touted rock n' roll band in the world.

In an attempt to recreate the atmosphere of a live concert, the movie sound track has been recorded in quadrophonic, the first film to use 16 tracks. The music will be blasted at 100 decibels (db), a mere 10 db less than what is actually heard during a live Stones' concert. Some four tons of sound equipment is to accompany the film across the country.

Mick Jagger

"The film was first envisioned as a documentary for television," said Paulsen, "but after we heard the soundtrack we decided it was too good to waste on TV. We wanted to create the same feeling of 'there you are' for the thousands of fans who wanted to see the Stones in '72 but either couldn't get tickets or lived too far from where they were appearing."

The Atlantic spokesman added that the film "will be both very personal and yet very aloof, too. Those who went to the concert but sat rows from the stage will be glad about the film because there's plenty of close-ups of Mick and the Stones. Every seat in the house is a good one."

Now if the film's producers can guarantee that no one will camp on the sidewalks before Ticketron outlets, then "Ladies and Gentlemen" may indeed be an innovation.

Lemmon is target of heckler

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) —

The American Film Institute dinner which honored James Cagney was a time for remembering. They served roast beef, but the real entree was nostalgia, medium rare.

Highlight of the evening's ceremonies was Cagney himself and some judiciously selected clips from many of his old films. He looks older, which is understandable — he is listed at 70, but many insist he's two or three years older than that — but he still has a bounce to his step and a twinkle in his eye and voice.

Virtually everybody in town was there to pay him honor. There was one person who was there who shouldn't have been, too.

As Jack Lemmon was paying tribute to Cagney, there was a heckling voice from the rear, loud and clear. It was identified as belonging to director Sam Peckinpah ("The Wild Bunch").

Jack Lemmon

too. Reports are floating around that George Harrison is having difficulties at home. His wife has heard the stories that he has another girl on the string, and doesn't like the stories or the idea.

The "American Graffiti" producers rewarded the 10 top actors in the film, after it became a success, with one-tenth of one per cent of the profits. It may not sound like much, but one of those so gifted says it will pay for "a small house, or else the down payment on a large house."

Veteran actor Gene Raymond has this to say about the quality of today's young actors:

"There are many good young talents around nowadays but it's very hard for them to progress with their careers. They do not have a studio behind them. They do a part today and it may be six months before they get another one. Meanwhile, the public forgets — the public always has had a tendency to forget. A career needs continuity, and the kids don't get that any more."

George Segal says he has one unfulfilled ambition — he'd like to play a truly heroic figure on the screen.

TV Scout Reports

There is some talk of letting the character of Jill, as played by Kate Jackson, have a baby on The Rookies next season. Kate is not too happy with that idea.

Gavin MacLeod, who has been singing on shows like Dinah Shore's and Johnny Carson's, will probably get a chance to unlimber his pipes on The Mary Tyler Moore Show next season.

Gavin sang "My Cup Runneth Over" on a recent Dinah Shore show and his bride, Patti Steele, was standing in the wings beaming. Patti is the mother of actress Stephenie Steele, who played Herschel Bernardi's daughter in Arnie.

There was an extra page in the season's final Carol Burnett Show with a message from the gang which mimeographs Carol's scripts. It said, "Dear Carol: We love you!!! We want you!!! Your Ever Lovin' Mimeo Crew."

One of the funniest award acceptance speeches ever came from Jet Fore, a veteran publicist with 20th Century Fox who won the Publicists Guild Publicist of the Year Award. Jet, who is a very young gentleman, thanked Bill Conrad, one of the presenters (with Hope Lange), "Who did a lot for my image. I also want to thank agent Henry Willson who changed my name from Tab Hunter (I would never have made it as a diet drink) to Jet Fore. And I also want to thank my campaign manager, Donald Segretti."

Roger Moore, presenting the press award, was obviously thinking of Marlon Brando's proxy at last year's Oscars. He said, "I keep thinking I'll announce the winner and Minnehaha will get up and refuse the award."

A new headache for the TV networks is an economic one. They're trying to raise prices for commercials but many sponsors are balking. There is talk now that some of them may take their advertising budgets elsewhere — newspapers, magazines — leaving TV without an angel for a while.

Richard Boone wants to change his Hec Ramsey series from a 90-minute entry in the NBC Mystery Movie collection to a once-a-week hour series. NBC would prefer to keep the status quo. The impasse could kill the show completely.

Philip Abbott had his son on the set when he directed an episode of The FBI. The boy thought he had figured out who the killer was in the show. Abbott let him think that way. But he was wrong and Daddy got the last laugh.

Honestly, it's your best policy.

Down from the windswept hill

HOLLYWOOD — Rue McClanahan clutched a copy of a newspaper, like it was a security blanket. It wasn't just any newspaper, it was her hobby.

A few years ago, Rue made a movie in Kentucky and began reading the local paper, a bi-weekly called The Hazard Herald. She became fascinated with the names in the various Herald columns of vital statistics — births, deaths, hospital admissions and discharges — and thus began her hobby of collecting interesting names. Ever since, she has subscribed to the paper and thus keeps her Please tell me something about Bill Bixby of The Magician. Is he married? Can he really do magic? — Kristin Dehn, Oak Park, Ill.

Rue McClanahan

Bill, who is in his 40s, was a long-time bachelor until actress Brenda Benet came on the scene. Bill does all the tricks you see on the show but admits he is not a magician. Like all good actors, who are flexible people, he learned what he had to learn for the role.

collection fresh and up-to-date.

Among her prizes: Trellis Mae Jackshaft and Farcus Calnookey.

Her own name may not be quite up to that standard, but "Rue" is, to say the least, an unusual first name. Actually, until 1957, she was Eddi-Rue, a made-up bit of nomenclature which came from her parents' names. Her fathers' middle name was Edward, hence the Eddi, and her mother was Rheua, which sort of accounts for the Rue.

Now, playing Conrad Bain's new wife on Maude, she's making the name Rue McClanahan a household word.

She grew up in Ardmore, Okla., "on a windswept hill."

"That may sound romantic," she says, "but I remember it as being awful — the wind swept up the hill all the time, like a gale. All I can remember is wanting to get away from that hill."

Acting fascinated her since kindergarten, when she played the mother cat in a tyke-sized version of "The Three Little Kittens."

"I was the only one who took it seriously," she says. "The three little kittens goofed off."

She started out as a dancer and was heavy into that art in all its forms — ballet, modern, jazz. She was exposed to a fine drama teacher at Tulsa University, and switched over.

She tried Hollywood for four years, without conspicuous success, and then went to New York, where she did better things. She was doing so well that, about 16 months ago, she bought a house in Closter, N.J.

"I wanted to put down roots," she says. "I thought that was going to be my home forever and that I would retire there. Then came Maude and here I am."

A few weeks ago, she went back east, to see her home, and now she says she couldn't live there any more. She has fallen completely in love with California. But she still has the urge for roots, wants a place where she can have a few chickens and raise vegetables and flowers.

At the moment, she has other irons in the fire, besides Maude. She and her old Tulsa U. drama coach, who is now in Hollywood trying to act, are putting together a program of varied bits and pieces of plays and songs for performances at college concerts and lectures.

Ann B. Davis is very flattered that Lloyd Schwartz, the producer of The Brady Bunch, flew all the way to Shreveport, La., to be at her opening night performance of "Three on a Honeymoon." That's loyalty.

D'Antoni a man to be counted

By JOAN CROSBY

HOLLYWOOD — Phil D'Antoni had dropped in to Hollywood for some business (he is headquartered in New York). Talk got around to our last meeting a decade ago when he was telling how he had convinced Elizabeth Taylor to make her TV debut and take viewers on a guided tour of London.

That was his claim to fame at the time. Since then Phil has become a name to be reckoned with, as producer of "Bullitt," "The French Connection" and the current release, "The Seven Ups."

Now he is partially back in TV.

"The plans at present," he says, "call for two TV pilots a year and one feature film every two years."

For TV, Phil is partnered with Barry Weitz to form D'Antoni-Weitz Productions. Last season they turned out two pilots, Inside-Outside and The Connection, both filmed in New York.

Their first this year is In Tandem, to be telecast on NBC-TV May 8 and filmed on locations in Los Angeles and in Ventura, Calif. It stars Claude Akins and Frank Converse as an unlikely pair (Converse is from a wealthy family but he's on the road. Akins is a good-hearted roughneck) who wind up owning a gypsy truck.

"We think the idea is extremely timely," Phil said. "It's about two men who approach life from a different point of view. It's a simple story but it has social significance. It also has action because I like action."

In a time when names are willing to work in small parts for "cameo" billing and when producers seem anxious to load their casts with recognizable names and faces, D'Antoni and Weitz have let Akins and Converse carry the name value and cast the rest of the show "with the best available," but non-names.

Their second pilot outline will be delivered to NBC by July and will, according to D'Antoni, probably be filmed in New York.

He's a New Yorker by birth. He and his wife have lived in Nyack, N. Y., for the past 20 years. He admits some of the aspects of New York City are no longer pleasant but he likes the east and finds it a fine place for filming.

"Sometimes I wished I liked it here in California more than I do. I recall when we were filming 'The French Connection' we had a home in Pacific Palisades. I'd be home by 6 every night. I'd take a dip in the pool and then have dinner on the patio. It was nice.

"But I find there is no anonymity here. You go to the supermarket and run into three guys you know do something in the movies and you talk shop. In Nyack, you just run into neighbors. I find my creative juices flow better in New York because I can get away from people in the business."

Ask TV scout

Who was he?

Please tell me who played Jim Thorpe in the movie of his life and who were the supporting stars. — R. W. Thomps, Kenosha, Wisc.

Burt Lancaster played the legendary American Indian athlete in "Jim Thorpe — All American." Others in the cast of the 1951 film were Charles Bickford, Phyllis Thaxter and Steve Cochran.

Caan do

I saw James Caan on Brian's Song and I think he is adorable. Tell me about him — married? kids? — and what pictures has he been in. — P. B., Westchester, Ill.

Caan, who used to do a lot of TV acting, then moved on to features, is divorced and has a daughter from that marriage. He's from New York, in his early 30s and spends his spare time weekending with rodeos, where he rides broncs. He's been in "The Godfather," "Slither," "The Last Detail" and lots of other films. He's considered a major star now.

Winners

Neame, Hackman, producer Irwin Allen, Shelley Winters and Ernest Borgnine. "The Poseidon Adventure" returns to SEDALIA April 24 at the Highway 50 Drive-In Theater.

TV Scout Reports

Anita Gillette, one of the stars of this season's quickest flop, Bob and Carol and Ted and Alice, has told friends that she is coming back to Hollywood — with the 23-year-old Israeli soldier, Sami, she met in Rome.

It now appears as if ABC may lead off one of next season's movie-for-TV nights with The Sex Symbol.

This, you'll recall, is the Connie Stevens film which was widely publicized, scheduled, then yanked "because it was not ready."

Well, TV Scout has seen the film and it was definitely ready.

However, it is being drastically reedited. Word is that by the time they finish cutting the role played by Don Murray it will be practically a bit. He played a Senator with an Irish name who, by the film's end, had become governor. He had children and a wife "who goes her way and I go mine." Whenever he arrived at the California beach house he borrowed, he called the blonde sex symbol movie star, played by Connie, and they spent romantic evenings together.

The network, which originally approved the film, wants, among other deletions, the reference to the Senator being married out.

Also, the final shot of Connie, lying nude, face down on the bed and carefully shadowed, will probably be cut.

David Niven, who is taping The Bluffers for NBC-TV, is hurrying back to England when taping finishes because his two youngest children begin their holidays. "They're just sitting there waiting for me to come home so the fun can begin." The children are 12 and 10.

Look for Hal Holbrook to play Abraham Lincoln in the six-part TV series George Schaefer is producing and directing for David Wolper. According to present plans, names will not be sought for the other roles, merely the best actor for the part. Hal will make a fine Lincoln.

Susan Saint James' daughter is named Sunshine because, Susan says, "she looks like it."

Susan says she has an identity problem. People quite often come up to her and say, "Do you know you look like Susan Saint James?" Recently when a man said that to her, she said, "I am," and left him in a state of shock.

Robert Culp, who appeared in Columbo this past season, says he loves working with Peter Falk. "It's the only show I've done where you get time to properly work on a scene," Culp says. "Pete gets to the heart of the scene and you follow his lead."

Woody Allen was asked why people considered him a genius. He had a Woody Allenish answer: "Because I wear glasses."

One of the networks has a big problem on its hands. A top star of a high-rated comedy series has a $3,000-a-month drug habit, which is bad enough. But the star has also tried to hook another star and that's worse.

Donna Douglas, the pig-tailed beauty of The Beverly Hillbillies, has all but abandoned her acting career. She's now selling real estate around town.

Many viewers want to know why Philip Ahn, Kung Fu's Master Kan, used a cane when the series first started, but no longer uses it. The answer is simple: he was recovering from a serious accident when the pilot was shot and had to use a cane.

Ronny Cox, the star of Apple's Way, says he's adjusted quickly to life in Los Angeles, after moving to L.A. from New York.

"I feel more at home here than in New York," Cox says. "I'm really a small town boy at heart."

The one thing Jack Webb told Mitchell Ryan, when he began starring in Webb's Chase series, was to talk faster. Ryan, trained on the stage, had been taking his time with his words, but Webb said that, for the camera, it was essential that he speak at a faster clip.

Zero Mostel: study in contradictions

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Zero Mostel acts. Zero Mostel paints. Don't however, call him an actor who paints — "the one thing has nothing to do with the other."

On the other hand, Zero Mostel doesn't care what people think just because he posed nude in a bathtub with an unclad nymph for a magazine.

"I don't give a damn about images," he asserts, with all the intensity of his behemoth being. "I'm not a snob about those things."

"How can you be any kind of an artist if you worry about images? The vast regions of cherubic face fracture into an impish grin."

Zero Mostel, of course, is an old hand at such apparent contradictions. It's helpful to remember two things: He once thought briefly about becoming a psychiatrist; and he is an ardent addict of the writings of James Joyce. Influences both that can point one toward free-form, stream-of-consciousness behavior.

Broadway's sparse drama supply has in recent weeks been somewhat abated by Mostel's appearance in "Ulysses in Nighttown," an excerpt from the noted Joyce novel.

The impressive, funny-sad portrayal earned a Tony Award nomination for the 59-year-old actor who already has three of the coveted silver medallions.

He was in a triumphant off-Broadway version of the once-banned book 16 years ago, but felt it could be done even better in today's permissive milieu.

"You feel a responsibility, there's nothing quite like it in any language — a treasure trove. Joyce got into mind of characters in a way no one else has."

Zero claims to have read the mammoth volume 100 times, and hasn't stopped finding new nuances.

"This is what theater should be about," he says, taking a swipe at "pipsqueak musicals or plays that should be on TV."

"People always want to understand everything about 'Ulysses.' Why? Great works of art you don't understand easily. How can you explain a mountain by Cezanne? It's a creation. This is a creation."

Mostel interrupts himself in mid-sermon to notify the visitor that this studio where he endlessly paints and which at the moment is throbbing to a four-loudspeaker outpouring of Beethoven, used to be the home of an earlier era's clown giants, Weber and Fields.

"This was Tin Pan Alley," he vaguely indicates Manhattan's wholesale flower center. "In my old studio George Gershwin once played the piano. I had to move

Interpreting Joyce

"This is what theater should be about," says Zero Mostel of James Joyce's "Ulysses." The actor, photographed in the New York studio where he paints, is amply demonstrating his thesis on Broadway, where he is appearing in "Ulysses in Nighttown," an excerpt from the Joyce novel. His impressive, funny-sad portrayal has won him a Tony Award nomination — he already has three of the coveted awards. (AP) because the place got too small. I think I need about five floors."

Mostel lightly heaves himself away from the tuna salad and zero-cal cherry pop for a tour of the cluttered sanctum.

"If I don't paint every day I go crazy. I don't kid around and I don't want to paint like anybody else."

At 13, he was drawing portraits of his rabbi father — "you could even see the cataract." He was ejected from one art academy for turning an exercise in geometric planes into a game of tic-tac-toe, but later found a more sympathetic teacher.

Now his pictures get as much as $11,999 at auction, but he long since moved away from strictly representational art and is so turned off by verisimilitude that there are no photographs in his home, not even of Kate, "the tough, good dame" who has mothered two sons and been his wife for 30 years.

"I always start realistic, always with live models. Then I'll turn the real around, superimpose figures, fragment bits, then some idea comes to be and I try to get something out of it." He works in assorted mediums, always with music for background, classic and full. "I hate rock."

Although another artist convinced him not to sell pictures, he's torn by economic reality: "It's terrible to equate paintings with money." He gave up a youthful notion of a career in psychiatry because "only rich people can afford that kind of care."

When not on stage, at his easel, or darting off somewhere around the globe for an art museum sightseeing orgy, Mostel performs in movies. Reluctantly.

"I don't think they know what to do with me," he says of film directors. "They're shot crazy, lots of closeups. Most of the things they make are terrible. They've got to back off a little from us. My whole thing does it, not just the eyes."

Directors in general don't impress the star who never took an acting lesson in his life.

"Those blip blip blip big guys have been poisoned by the Stanislavsky method without understanding it. I hate the whole mumbo-jumbo ritual."

In defiance of proper preparation tradition, Mostel naps for an hour before going on stage instead of warming up his voice or getting into the essential mental state.

"I never memorize. I let the part lay in me." At times he has been accused of varying widely in an interpretation from night to night. Sternly denied.

"Braque said — 'a picture is completed when you've eradicated the original conception.' I'm a great believer in that. Eradicate what you did before, that's spontaneity. The substance is the same but it has a different spirit. I don't want it to become a dull, monotonous repetition. I can't play like a machine."

Mostel realizes that can put a strain on surrounding performers.

"Obviously they have to be alert, but I'll tell you one of my own acting secrets is listening. Spontaneity comes from hearing the other actors. Their voices change, I still make that piece of music with them."

He halts before a closet where he keeps some particularly prized work materials, bottles of varnish, turpentine and paint made from arcane formulae by now-dead master blenders.

New science fiction movie for TV airing

Ask TV scout

By JERRY BUCK
Associated Press Writer
BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — It's 160 years in the future, but earth is a primitive world.

Civilization has tumbled down in the wake of nuclear war that destroyed water systems, crippled highways and closed down industry.

The people of the world are isolated into tribes and feudal societies.

That's the premise of "Planet Earth," a new television movie and projected series from Gene Roddenberry, creator of "Star Trek."

A pessimistic view of the future? Roddenberry says no. He views it as optimistic and upbeat, as was "Star Trek."

"It's about a planet that's beginning to regenerate," said the big, burly one-time airline pilot and policeman.

"The water is clear, the air is clean. It's an optimistic series, really. Even though we've lost our civilization, as we've lost 10 to 12 civilizations before, man can come back and do better."

"I believe in mankind. We're an extraordinary creature. Our destiny is not dependent upon the materiality of this civilization. There can be few catastrophes larger than the loss of the Roman Empire. We lost that, but we rebuilt again and made it better."

"Planet Earth," which airs on ABC Tuesday, is in a way the flip side of "Star Trek."

The starship Enterprise was a means by which its crew could visit strange planets for adventures with alien people. "Planet Earth" is earthbound, but its regular cast will girdle the globe for adventures with the surviving societies — which will, of course, have developed in strange and imaginative ways.

A difference is that as a hero "Planet Earth" has a 20th Century man for better audience identification.

John Saxon is Dylan Hunt, a NASA scientist projected into the future by suspended animation. He joins with Pax, an organization of the world's remaining scientists, teachers and artists who are striving to knit all the cultures into one society based on universal brotherhood. Janet Margolin, Ted Cassidy and Christopher Cary also star.

Diana Muldaur is the guest star in the movie as an Amazon heading a woman-dominated society.

Roddenberry said he sees a parallel between "Star Trek" and "Planet Earth." In 1963 he offered "Star Trek" to CBS. After a pilot was made it was turned down in favor of "Lost in Space." A second pilot was made and NBC signed the show. It ran for three years.

"Planet Earth" originally was conceived as "Genesis II" and ran as a movie pilot on CBS last year. Again, CBS turned it down, this time in favor of "Planet of the Apes." Roddenberry took it to ABC, which liked its action-adventure potential and agreed to a pilot with a new cast.

"People who are not familiar with science fiction

Sci-fi TV

A futuristic subway train stands on a set behind TV writer Gene Roddenberry — part of the realization of a further leap of imagination from the creator of "Star Trek." The train is featured in "Planet Earth," Roddenberry's new TV movie and projected series, set 160 years into the future after the collapse of civilization. (AP) think it's limited to space ships and zap guns. It's a very, very broad area that includes 'Seven Days in May,' 'On the Beach' and 'The Manchurian Candidate.' People are surprised when you call them science fiction, but they are.

"They're all about people," insists Roddenberry. "The hacks keep trying to set it apart, but it's a part of the mainstream of literature."

"It's very hard to set it apart. Take a story like 'Robinson Crusoe' where a civilized man with no experience is cast away on a primitive island. He had to learn new skills, new rules, new disciplines. The dividing line between that and a man set down on a strange planet is negligible."

Roddenberry, 52, is married to Majel Barrett, the nurse in "Star Trek," and they have a new son. He has two older daughters from his first marriage.

Roddenberry was born in El Paso, Tex., the son of an Army master sergeant, but he was raised in Los Angeles. In World War II he flew 98 combat missions in the Army Air Corps, then became a pilot for Pan American Airways. He said he quit flying when it stopped being an adventure.

About Lord

Please tell me the age of Jack Lord of Hawaii Five-O. Thank you. — Pat Conwell, Chicago, Ill.

Like most actors, Jack is secretive about his age. But figure the figure in the show's title is pretty close, although The World Almanac lists him as having been born in 1930.

Mail call

How can I write the national TV networks. I often want to write about special shows I have enjoyed but I don't know where to send a letter. — Sandy Wild, Dothan, Ala.

The networks will enjoy hearing from you if you plan to write them complimentary letters. Too often it is only those with criticisms who write. The best place to send mail is to the Programming Vice-President of the networks. The addresses are: ABC, 1330 Ave. of the Americas, New York 10019. CBS, 51 W. 52nd St., New York 10019. NBC, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York 10036.

TV scout reports

Rock Hudson decided he needed a vacation, after being cooped up following a foot operation. With the gas shortage, he figured he might as well go to Europe and pick up a fuel-conserving Porsche in Germany. So he planned a trip.

Then he got lucky. He got a call from someone in Madrid who said that if he'd do a two-hour talk show there, they would pay his passage. So it all fell together, and he's off to Europe, all expenses paid. And he'll come back with his new car.
